Cook Boy Eats 200 Pies

Of course, he took 200 days to do it—but it was something of a feat, nevertheless.

The resisting power of a healthy youngster's stomach is something to marvel at.

But it's nothing to be compared to the resisting power of the American Fence. A million farmers have chosen it as the strongest, springiest, best and longest lasting fence material on the market.

You will find it so, too, if you will find the style and the best suited to your purpose. And you can do that easily.

D. B. SHACKELFORD & CO.

Better Prices.

The farmers all over the country are organizing for the purpose of securing better prices for their produce. The figures show, in the city of New York, alone, for instance, that $60,000,000 was paid last year for potatoes, for which the farmer received only $8,500,000. Cabbages cost the city people $9,125,000, while the farmer received but $1,800,000. Milk cost the city consumer $49,000,000, and a little less than half that amount found its way into the pocket of the dairyman. For his onions, the consumer in that city paid $8,212,000, while the farmers who grew them were paid only $821,000. The farmers are of the opinion that this disparity is entirely too great, and the result is that there are being formed organizations throughout the country near the large cities, for the purpose of selling their produce direct and eliminating the middleman.

Well, Rather!

The Paris dressmakers most startling contribution to milady's wardrobe this year is to be a new skirt, very narrow, with a slit at the side, extending well above the knee. A trade announcement here regarding the new skirt says: "If the director stockings, made of silken network with very large meshes, is to be worn with the dress, as it is said, the effect will be striking."

Favors Farmers.

Users of farm machinery won a victory in Kentucky when the Court of Appeals, Judge Suttle writing, delivered three opinions in cases of the Commonwealth against the International Harvester Company of America, in which it is held that the company is a trust and is selling its products too high in Kentucky. The court holds in these cases that there are no anti-trust laws in Kentucky, and that any company, whether regarded as a trust or not, may do business in Kentucky as long as it does not sell its products at a price greater than its real value or depreciate the prices of its products below the real value.

VERIFY IT

The Proof is in Richmond Almost at Your Door.

The public statement of a Richmond citizen is in itself strong proof for Richmond people, but confirmation strengthens the evidence.

Here is a Richmond citizen who testified years ago that Doan's Kidney Pills relieved weak kidneys and now states the result was permanent. (Can any sufferer from kidney ills ask better proof? You can investigate. The case is right at home.

Mollie Powers, 209 Hallie-Irvine St., Richmond, Ky., says: "Doan's Kidney Pills certainly are good and I gladly confirm the testimonial I gave in 1905 recommending them. They cured me of a severe case of kidney trouble. I suffered almost constantly for seven years from kidney trouble and could not get any relief until I procured a box of Doan's Kidney Pills at Middleton's Drug Store. This remedy quickly corrected my trouble and it has never returned."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Richmond has indeed been fortunate in having at the head of the municipal government a set of men who have been faithful to every trust imposed upon them by the voters who suffrage placed them in power. The CLIMAX is ever ready to speak words of praise in defense of any deserving one, and especially so of officials who were the saviors of public service, particularly in municipal government, and render unto those whose confidence has placed them in charge of the city's affairs the faithful performance of a service that is ordinarily little appreciated by the public generally. Few of our citizens realize or appreciate the service that is given the city by its officers, from mayor down, and fewer perhaps consider the meagre salary attached. Our mayor receives a stipend of $250 per year; members of the city council $50 per year, and other officials in proportion. Some of our readers may say this amount is sufficient, and continue with the assertion that these officials have little to do. Those who are not familiar with the duties of these officers have little conception of the time and labor devoted to the proper conduct of a municipality as large as Richmond, and especially in this time where every member of the city government is progressive and actually interested in the welfare of the city; desiring better streets, concrete sidewalks, sewerage and many other necessities, and at the same time considering the taxpayers, being economical in many cases to a distressing degree, in order to protect those who must pay the freight. Few of our readers possibly ever pause to consider the wages paid to these gentlemen in whose care is placed the guardianship of the entire city affairs. In view of this fact, and the fact that Richmond pays to her public servants a smaller salary than any city of her class in Kentucky, especially in this time regarding the mayor's salary, would it not be to the credit of the city to offer to her chief executive an amount commensurate with the dignity of the office, even though we fail to consider the many and varied duties this official must perform. This article was conceived in the mind of the writer and was not suggested by anyone connected with the present city administration, nor have any idea as to who will be a candidate to succeed the present incumbent, but whoever it may be we would urge the city council to offer as an inducement for service a salary adequate with the duties involved.

The Leader and Herald, Harrodsburg's splendid newspaper, are making a desperate fight for a new court house. This article was conceived in the mind of the writer and was not suggested by anyone connected with the present city administration, nor have any idea as to who will be a candidate to succeed the present incumbent, but whoever it may be we would urge the city council to offer as an inducement for service a salary adequate with the duties involved.

The Display of Men's Easter Clothing Is Now At Its Best

Men who select now have the advantage of choosing from an enormous stock, consisting of style and pattern that well-dressed men will favor. Anticipating a larger business than heretofore has spurred us on to greater efforts and we believe that our stocks are not only larger, but better than they have ever been.

WE INVITE YOU to come and see. Give us an opportunity to show you. If you will but make comparisons we believe that we will be favored with your patronage.

Men's Suits $10 & $12.50

These prices appeal to the average man, and the garments themselves will appeal forcibly to the man who expects a great deal of style and quality for a moderate outlay of money. Unusual efforts have been made by us to secure the very best suits at these prices. Spring's choicest novelties are here. Beautiful colors, such as brown, gray, tan and popular blues; best weaves and the best patterns may be had, and a perfect fit assured.

Men's Suits $15 & $18

Garments that will appeal forcibly to the man who has been in the habit of buying the highest-priced clothing. It would be folly on our part to try and tell you how far above ordinary clothing these suits are, but if men who know, men who dress well, men who wear the best, will but come and see this great stock of splendid garments we are sure that many of them will become patrons of this store. Let us show you the facilities tailoring, the splendid patterns. Illustrate the perfect fit.

Slip-ons and Cravenetted Raincoats $4.50 to $12.50

Garments that every man should have. A Raincoat is an absolute necessity. They may be worn in dry weather as well as on rainy days, and when one considers these facts you can readily see the economical results from the purchase of a Raincoat.

An Easter service should produce a resurrection of the thought and feelings; to do this there should be no discords. From the beginning to the end there should be a constant uplift. The decorations of the altar should be more than mere decorations, they should be suggestive. The Scripture selection and the hymns should all bear in one direction, the music should never overwhelm the thought, but encourage it. The sermon should be filled with the Holy Ghost. The Easter service should be a unit.—Universalist Leader.

The Prodigal Judge

Mr. Ware accepted this statement with equanimity, not to say indifference.

"Are you ready?" he asked; he glanced at Mahaffy, who by a slight inclination of the head signified that he was. "I reckon you're a green hand at this sort of thing," commented Tom evily.

"Yes," said Mahaffy tersely. "Well, listen: I shall count, one, two, three; at the word three you will fire. Now take your positions."

Mahaffy and the colonel stood facing each other, a distance of twelve paces separating them. Mahaffy was pale but dogged; he eyed Fontresse unflinchingly. Quick on the word Fontresse fired, an instant later Mahaffy's pistol exploded; apparently neither bullet had taken effect, the two men maintained the rigid attitude they had assumed; then Mahaffy was seen to turn on his heels, next his arm dropped to his side and the pistol slipped from his fingers, a look of astonishment passed over his face and left it vacant and staring while his right hand stole up toward his heart; he raised it slowly, with difficulty, as though it were held down by some invisible weight.

A hush spread across the field. It was like one of nature's invisible transitions. Along the edge of the woods the song of birds was stricken into silence. Ware, wary-eyed—Fontresse, his lips twisted by a tortured smile, watched Mahaffy as he panted for breath, with his hand clenched against his breast. That dead, oppressive silence lasted but a moment; from out of it came a cry that smote on the wounded man's ears and reached his consciousness.

"It's Price," he gasped, his words bathed in blood, and he pitched forward on his face.

Ware and Fontresse had heard the cry, too, and running to their horses threw themselves into the saddle and galloped off. The judge midway of the main road reared out a furious protest, but the mounted men turned in to the highroad and vanished from sight, and the judge's shaking legs bore him swiftly in the direction of the figure on the ground.

Mahaffy struggled to rise, for he was bearing his friend's voice now, the voice of utter anguish, calling his name. At last painful effort brought him to his knees. He saw the judge, clothed principally in a gaily colored bed-quilt, hatless and shoeless, his face sodden and bleary from his night's debauch. Mahaffy stood erect and staggered toward him, his hand over his wound, his features drawn and livid, then with a cry he dropped at his friend's feet.

"Solomon! Solomon!" And the judge knelt beside him.

"What's all right, Price? I kept your appointment," whispered Mahaffy; bloody spume was gathering on his lips, and he stared up at his friend with glassy eyes.

In very shame the judge hid his face in his hands, while sohe shook him.

"Solomon—Solomon, why did you do this?" he cried miserably.

"He's all right, Price; I kept your appointment," whispered Mahaffy; bloody spume was gathering on his lips, and he stared up at his friend with glassy eyes.

"I know it, Solomon—I know it!" he moaned wretchedly.

"Price, you are still a man to be reckoned with. There's the boy, take your place for his sake and keep it—you can."

"I will—by God, I will!" gasped the judge.

"You hear me? You hear me, Solomon? By God's good help, I will!"

"You have the president's letter—I saw it!" cried Mahaffy in a whisper.

"Yes!" cried the judge. "Solomon, the world is changing for us."

"For me most of all," murmured Mahaffy, and there was a bleak instant when the judge's ashen countenance held the full pathos of age and failure.

"Remember your oath, Price," gasped the dying man. A moment of silence succeeded. Mahaffy's eyes closed, then the heavy lids slid back.

He looked up at the judge while the harsh lines of his sour old face softened wonderfully. "Kiss me, Price," he whispered, and as the judge bent to touch him on the brow, the softened lines fixed themselves in death, while on his lips lingered a smile that was neither bitter nor sneering.

CHAPTER XXXIII.

The Judge's Grandson.
In that bare upper room they had shared, the judge, crushed and broken, watched beside the bed on which the dead man lay; unconscious of the light of time he sat with his head bowed in his hands, having scarcely altered his position since he begged those who carried Mahaffy up the narrow stairs to leave him alone with his friend.

He was living over the past. He recalled his first meeting with Mahaffy in the stuffy cabin of the small river packet from which they had just gone ashore at Pleasantville; he thanked God that it had been given him to see beneath Solomon's forbidding exterior and into that starved heart!

He reviewed each phase of the almost insupportable growth of their intimacy; he remembered Mahaffy's fine true loyalty at the time of his arrest—his thought of Damon and Pythias—Mahaffy had reached the heights of a noble devotion; he could only feel ennobled that he had inspired it.

At last the dusk of twilight invaded the room. He lighted the candles on the chimneypiece, then he resumed his seat and his former attitude. Suddenly he became aware of a small hand that was resting on his arm and glanced up; Hannibal had stolen quietly into the room. The boy pointed to the still figure on the bed.

"Judge, what makes Mr. Mahaffy lie so quiet—he's dead?" he asked in a whisper.

"Yes, dear lad," began the judge in a shivering voice, as he drew Hannibal toward him, "your friend and mine is dead—we have lost him." He lifted the boy into his lap, and Hannibal pressed a tear-stained face against the judge's shoulder. "How did you get here?" the judge questioned gently.

"Uncle Bob fetched me," said Hannibal. "He's downstairs, but he didn't tell me Mr. Mahaffy was dead."

"We have lost him a great loss, Hannibal, and we must never forget the moral grandeur of the man. Some day, when you are older, and I can bring myself to speak of it, I will tell you of his last moments. The judge's voice broke, a thick sob rose chokingly in his throat. "Poor Solomon! A man of such tender feeling that he hid it from the world, for he was a rare nature whose heart was a great sea of sympathy, and he honored with his love." The judge lapsed into a moan.

Mahaffy struggled to rise, for he was bearing his friend's voice now, the voice of utter anguish, calling his name. At last painful effort brought him to his knees. He saw the judge, clothed principally in a gaily colored bed-quilt, hatless and shoeless, his face sodden and bleary from his night's debauch. "Do you mean we ain't going to be pore any longer, grandfather?" repeated Hannibal.

"I shall enjoy an adequate competency which I am about to recover. It will be sufficient for me, in indulgence of those simple and intellectual tastes I propose to cultivate for the future."

In spite of himself the judge sighed. This was hardly in line with his state, but the right to choose was no longer his. "You will be very rich, Hannibal. The Quintard lands—your grandmother was a Quintard—will be yours; they run up into the hundreds of thousands of acres backabout; this land will be yours as soon as I can establish your identity."

"Will Uncle Bob be rich too?" inquired Hannibal.

"How can he be poor when we possess wealth?" answered the judge.

"You reckon he will always live with us, don't you, grandfather?" "I would not have it otherwise. I admire Mr. Yancy—he is simple and direct, and fit for any company under heaven except that of fools. His treatment of you has placed an unending obligation on me; he shall share what we have. My one bitter, unavailing regret is that Solomon Mahaffy will not be here to partake of our good fortunes." And the judge sighed deeply.

"Uncle Bob told me Mr. Mahaffy got hurt in a duel, grandfather," said Hannibal.

"He was as inexperienced as a child in the use of firearms, and he had to deal with soundrels who had neither mercy nor generous feeling—but his courage was magnificent."

Presently the judge's face grew deep in his account of those adventures he had shared with Miss Betty.

"And Miss Malroy—where is she now?" asked the judge, in the first pause of the boy's narrative.

"She's at Mr. Bowen's house. Mr. Carrington and Mr. Cavendish are here too. Mrs. Cavendish stayed down yonder at the Bates' plantation."

"It was Captain Murrell who had me stole—do you reckon he was going to take me back to Mr. Bladen?"

"I will see Miss Malroy in the morning. We must combine our interests are identical. There should be help in this for more than one scoundrel! I can see now how criminal my disinclination to push myself to the front has been," said the judge, with conviction. "Never again will I shrink from what I know to be a public duty."

A little later they went downstairs, where the judge had Yancy make up a bed for himself and Hannibal on the floor. He would watch alone beside Mahaffy, he was certain this would have been the man's wish; then he said good night and mounted heavily to the floor above to resume his vigil and his musings.

CHAPTER XXXIII.

A Crisis at the Court-House.
Just at daybreak Yancy was roused by the pressure of a hand on his arm, and opening his eyes, he found that the judge was bending over him.

"Dress!" he said briefly. "There's every prospect of trouble—get your rifle and come with me!"

Yancy noted that this prospect of trouble seemed to afford the judge a pleasurable sensation; indeed, he had quite lost his former air of somber and suppressed melancholy.

"I let you sleep, thinking you needed the rest," the judge went on. "But every since midnight we've been on the verge of riot and possible bloodshed. They've arrested John Miller—it's claimed he's planned a service for the night. A man named Hues, who had warned his wife into his confidence, made the arrest. He carried Murrell into Murrell's room, and the judge, in a fit of rage, threatened to shoot him. He managed to get his prisoner lodged in jail, but he's planning a service for the night. Residence Blown Down.

The high wind yesterday completely demolished a residence on East Walnut street, being constructed by Blanton Congleton Co., and painfully wounded Chas. Howell, who was caught under the falling structure. Chas. Howell, Jake Brown and Ed Howell were on top of the building when it collapsed, and it was considered a miracle by those who witness the accident that these men escaped with their lives. The building was a one and one-half story residence, and the above named gentlemen were at work on the roof, when a sudden gust of wind caused the frame work to topple over. Jake Brown and Ed Howell escaped uninjured.

Frank Roberts Attempts Suicide.

Frank Roberts, son of Richard Roberts, of Tates Creek, this county, shot himself Sunday night, the bullet from a thirty-two calibre revolver passed through his body. The act was committed at the Richmond Hotel, about twelve o'clock, and the young man, who is twenty-seven years of age, states that he cannot account for his rash act and is very hopeful of recovery. The bullet entered the right breast, about an inch below the nipple, and passed through the spine, coming out on the left side, causing paralysis from his waist down. His condition is very serious, with grave doubts as to the outcome. Roberts has been in Richmond about eighteen months and lives with his brother-in-law, Talt Newby, on East Main street.

Chance To Beautify School Rooms.

The idea of the art section of the Westchester Woman's Club in providing means to buy pictures for rooms in the public schools, ought to meet with support. It is practical work and has the endorsement of many of the best people of this country. This plan has been tried in other places and has succeeded. It provides for an art exhibit, the pictures being supplied for that purpose by the concern which furnishes them, for school rooms, and a small admission fee is charged. This is not a money making scheme for any individual, as the proceeds will be devoted to pictures for the schools. Exhibits at Caldwell High School Auditorium April 17-20.

Fair Dates.

The Knights of Pythias will hold their annual fair at Nicholasville this year on August 27, 28 and 29. Chas. C. Glass is president and R. H. Webb, secretary.

Mr. Robinson Purchased Farm.

The Danville Advocate says: "Mr. R. F. Robinson, of Richmond, closed a deal several days ago, whereby he secured possession of one of the best farms in the county. He purchased from R. L. Gose his farm located a short distance from this city, for a consideration of $102 per acre. It is understood that the new owner will shortly move to this city to reside."

Madisonian Proprietor of Health Resort.

Dr. D. L. Fry, formerly of Kirksville, this county is one of the proprietors of Hotel Hildreth, Hildreth, N. C., one of the most popular hotels in that State. Both Dr. Fry and his wife, who, before her marriage, was Miss Middleton, of Kirksville, are well remembered in this county, and both have many friends who will be gratified to learn that this estimable couple is enjoying good health and splendid business in their new home.

Organize Champ Clark Club.

A number of citizens met at the court house Monday afternoon and organized a Champ Clark Club. Mr. D. M. Chennault was elected chairman, and Mr. Chas. Embury, secretary. Several speeches were made by the enthusiasts of the presidential candidate and much enthusiasm prevailed. The meeting adjourned until next Saturday at 2:30 p. m., at which time a meeting will be held in the circuit court room. Wilson and Underwood Clubs will also be organized in this city at an early date.

General Clean Up Days.

April 8, 9 and 10 has been set aside as Mayor Rice as general clean up days in Richmond. Our citizens are aware of the prevalence of small-pox since Jan. 1, and while there have been very few cases and in a very mild form, every property owner within the corporate limits should take a pride in the welfare of the city and join in the movement to effect a general cleaning, as this is the most effective way to eradicate this and other diseases from our midst.

The Women's Club has consented to cooperate with the city authorities in making this movement the success it deserves to be, and the Secretary, Miss Helen Bennett, will be glad to communicate with all who wish to take part in this movement. Every citizen of Richmond should take part in this crusade against filth and disease and make our beautiful city what it should be, the Queen City of the Bluegrass. City carts will be in readiness to move all rubbish and if necessary additional teams will be furnished on application. Mayor Rice will be in his office on above dates and those desiring to communicate with him may do so, either in person or over telephone.

Wins Machine.

The auction sale of a sewing machine advertised in THE CLIMAX by W. T. Higgins came to a close Monday, Jennie Hampton, colored, having tied the best bid was awarded the machine, which is a celebrated Paragon Mr. Higgins advertised that he would receive sealed bids on the machine until April 1, at which time the award would be made to the highest bidder. Considerable interest was manifested in this new method of conducting an auction, and no doubt Mr. Higgins will inaugurate another at an early date. The woman who secured the above machine had the misfortune to lose her household goods by fire, about four weeks ago, and the prize will be all the more appreciated by her. The advertisement of W. T. Higgins, which appeared weekly in THE CLIMAX.

Art Exhibit At Caldwell High School.

Copies of masterpieces will be seen here. Beautiful carvings and photographs will be shown at the Caldwell High School Auditorium, April 17-20. An educational opportunity with a two-fold advantage, in co-operation with the educational advantages to be derived from opportunities to see good art, the Library and Schools in co-operation have arranged with the A. W. Elson Co., of Boston, for an art exhibition of 187 pictures to be held in the auditorium, April 17-20. This collection, consisting in large part of carvings and photographs, made directly from the original masterpieces, is selected by art experts and should attract large crowds of persons. A small admission will be charged, the entire proceeds of which after deducting the expense of the exhibit, will be used in the purchase of pictures for wall decorations. The purpose of the exhibition is thus clearly two-fold: First, to give people an opportunity to see a collection of the world's famous masterpieces of painting, sculpture and architecture. Second, to make it possible for the public to own a few of these pictures in the schools. Throughout the country, people are awakening to the importance and value of good art as a means of refining influence and inspiring atmosphere, and just so surely as people become familiar with the best of art, just so surely will the crude in art be displaced through the appreciation of something better. It is not of course, to suppose that one shall become a connoisseur in a moment, but it is a pleasure giving power to the original in art, and a work of art, which is really great will bear reproduction, and even though this may not possess the pleasure giving power to the original in art, it will still be a pleasure to have a gallery three thousand miles away. Anyone who cares to do it can accumulate gradually a little picture gallery of this sort in his own mind quite independent of circumstances, time or money. This collection has been made by experts. Every artist who knows how to draw at all, has something to give of pleasure and profit, but the greatest even have the most and best to give. One great object of picture study is that of opening the eyes to the beauty all around us, and an artist's trained eye perceives, while it is missed by others. This is the essential service of all great art, and it is this service which we are to their own level of insight, enjoyment and inspiration. These pictures are of interest to both young and old and they are expected to attract and instruct large numbers of people. Every one should come.

Will Meet In Richmond.

The Eighth District Teachers' Association closed a very successful meeting at Lawrenceburg last week. A splendid program was carried out to the great benefit and uplift of those present. The next meeting of the association will be held in this city Friday and Saturday after Thanksgiving. Prof. H. H. of Lawrenceburg, was elected president, and Prof. E. C. McLaughlin, of this city, secretary.

Bright Prospects For Fair.

A number of farmers and business men of Richmond and Madison county held a meeting, Saturday afternoon, at the court house with a view of taking steps to perfect an organization to hold a fair in this city during the present season. An option has been secured on twenty acres of land accessible to the city and it is the desire of those who were present at the meeting Saturday to purchase this property and make the Madison county Fair a permanent institution. The above property can be procured at a reasonable price, but the option is only for a short period and demands immediate action on the part of those interested if the site is secured. Another meeting will be held Saturday at the court house and every one interested in perpetuating the Madison County Fair are earnestly requested to be present. Our citizens should, if necessary, make a sacrifice in order to be present at this meeting, as there is nothing that will add more to the city and county than a fair as conducted in former years, when these exhibitions drew thousands of people to this city where could be seen the finest stock and crop products in the State. Let everybody attend the meeting at the court house Saturday.

Thos. Smith For Delegate.

The Louisville Times says: That honors are coming in bunches to Col. Thomas Jefferson Smith, the clever secretary to Gov. McCreary, is evidenced by the boom now started by his friends to send him as a delegate from the Eighth district to the Democratic National Convention at Baltimore. Col. Smith is a resident of Madison county and the boom for him as delegate was launched by his friends in that county. Col. Tom has been picked out to head the new Department of Banking and will be the first Bank Commissioner of the State with the nice salary of $3,600 a year attached. Since his advent in the political limelight, Col. Tom has made a host of friends who rejoice in his successes. The biggest loss by his promotion will be Gov. McCreary, who loses a painstaking and efficient right-hand man.

Base Ball Notes.

Sunday's Lexington Leader says: President Neal was called to Richmond Friday night to confer with the owners of that club as to the signing of a player who is expected to turn things up in this league. President Neal stated Saturday morning that this led, who would probably be signed by Richmond in the next few days would be one of the best drawing cards in the league, but that at present he could not give out his name. President Neal also said that the Richmond Club has raised a large fund for the support of this season's team and baseball enthusiasm was running very high in that town.

It is probable that Ray Haley, the catcher who was secured from the Richmond team by the "Pirates," will be turned back to them this season, as they are pretty well supplied with backstops. Haley has been doing well in his early training, but he had too many good ones with more experience pitted against him with the "Pirates" for him to stand much chance to get a permanent berth with them this season.

President William Neal of the Blue Grass League, has had his umpires busy the past week working in the exhibition games at Louisville. Steve Kane, who is one of the staff, has so far shown up pretty well in his work and President Neal says that he is a man that will be able to handle the Blue Grass Leaguers this season. Neal also says he is going to give some of the men working during the Chicago League season, and if they can handle the "Cubs" they will certainly not have much trouble in this league.

Farmers Busy.

During the few days of sunshine last week the farmers of Madison county got a start with spring work. Many tobacco beds were burned and seed sown, and many acres of sod land turned under. The late wheat crops in Madison were greatly injured by the severe winter weather. The early seeded fields look well, but the late sown wheat was practically all killed. Rye, however, fared much better and the outlook from a good crop is promising. The warmer weather of the past ten days has had a tendency to give early grass a good start and prospects at present are good for an abundance of grass by May 1.

High Price is Asked by Owners of Boonesboro Site.

The State Y. M. C. A. has written to parties here that the site at Boonesboro on which it was proposed to locate Camp Daniel Boone for the youths of Central Kentucky, has been priced at a very high figure, practically prohibitive, and for this reason another location has been taken up for investigation.

As was told in The Democrat several days ago, the Y. M. C. A. of the state proposes to locate a summer camp on the Kentucky river in the Bluegrass section, for the use of the boys and young men of Central Kentucky, boy scouts especially, where a daily program will be carried out and everything done to bring the youth up to a higher moral standard, as well as physically. These camps prevail throughout the North and accomplish great good.

The committee investigating the Boonesboro site, believing that it was the best place for such a camp, on account of the history connected with the spot, the proximity to excellent roads and railways and surrounding country. The Boonesboro site is practically the only one along the river from Irvine to Frankfort, which seems to possess all the requirements of such a camp ground. The price asked for the site has been placed so high that the committee claims it is prohibitive as far as they are concerned. It is owned by Dr. Williams, of Ford.

The Commercial Club could look into this matter and may be able to get a suitable place on the Clark side at a figure which could be handled by the State Association. This would be the first camp of the kind established in the State, and its influence will be felt all over the country. It is a matter which should be looked into by every resident of Clark county.—Winchester Democrat.

ACTUAL STARVATION

Facts About Indigestion and Its Relief That Should Interest You.

Although Indigestion and Dyspepsia are so prevalent, most people do not thoroughly understand their cause and cure. There is no reason why most people should not eat anything they desire—if they will only chew it carefully and thoroughly. Many actually starve themselves into sickness through fear of eating every good-looking, good-smelling, and good-tasting food, because it does not agree with them.

The best thing to do is to fit yourself to digest any good food. We believe we can relieve Dyspepsia. We are so confident of this fact that we guarantee and promise to supply the medicine free of all cost to every one who will use it, who is not perfectly satisfied with the results which it produces. We exact no promise, and put no one under any obligation whatever. Surely nothing could be fairer. We are located right here and our reputation should be sufficient assurance of the genuineness of our offer.

We want every one troubled with Indigestion or Dyspepsia in any form to come to our store and buy a box of Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets. Take them home and give them a reasonable trial, according to direction. Then, if not satisfied, come to us and get your money back. They are very pleasant to take; they aid to soothe the irritable stomach, to strengthen and invigorate the digestive organs, and to promote a healthy and natural bowel action, thus leading to perfect and healthy digestion and assimilation.

A 25c. package of Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets furnishes 15 days' treatment. In ordinary cases, this is sufficient to produce a cure. In more chronic cases, a longer treatment, of course, is necessary, and depends upon the severity of the trouble. For such cases, we have two larger sizes which sell for 50c. and $1.00. Remember, you can obtain Rexall Remedies in this community only at our store—The Rexall Store. Perry's Drug Store.

With the Caloric

Come to the Demonstration April 1st, and Continues One Week

THE "CALORIC" does better cooking and baking than is possible by any other method. That may sound like a strong statement to you who do not know the possibilities of this wonderful time and labor saving stove, but it is founded upon absolute results. Foods cooked with "Caloric" are far more nutritious and palatable. The delicious flavor of meats are far more savory when cooked the "Caloric" way, because none of the wholesomeness is lost by evaporation.

The "Caloric" roasts and bakes food in its raw state without partially cooking it in an ordinary stove or reheating it before serving. If you have never tasted food cooked in the "Caloric" you cannot realize the vast difference in flavor.

Come to our store and let us demonstrate to you how you can save your meat and grocery bills with a "Caloric" Fireless Cookstove and bring your friends.

Democrats

You want Good County Government, don't you? The only way to get it is to elect Good Officers. It is your duty to yourselves as taxpayers to know positively which one of the candidates for the nomination for County Attorney will give the best service for the money paid him. Which Candidate's Record Is THE BEST?

If that of any other is better than mine vote for him. If mine is best vote for me and I will appreciate it.
